JOB VACANCY - Green School Bali

GREEN SCHOOL IS GROWING. WE ARE LOOKING FOR THE GREENEST TEACHER IN THE WORLD!

Job Title: High School English Teacher
Department - Division: Education - Faculty
Working Relations with: Students, Parents, Faculty, Staff
Reports to: Head of High School, Head of School
Start Date: 1 August, 2014

General Summary: The ideal candidate performs multiple duties related to teaching the subject of English to upper school students at Green School. The teacher is responsible for designing and implementing creative planning documentation, maintaining a positive learning environment, participating actively in their specialist neighbourhood, and is an active and integral member of the Green School team, sharing in the duties of daily school operations.

What are the job responsibilities?

- Inspire in students and staff a compelling desire to give of their best
- Support and encourage the development of confidence in students via positive relationships
- Design and implement creative units of engagement for upper school students as well as proficiency-based units of study based on the Green School learning models so that the lessons are differentiated for all students and accessible by staff and management
- Deliver small group and individualized differentiated instruction as needed, providing support for all students on the skills spectrum
- Maintain clear, accurate, and accessible assessment records
- Maintain regular and strong communication with parents
- Lead and participate in our extra-curricular programs with full commitment, enthusiasm and support
- Initiate, organise and/or participate in Green School community events
- Serve on committees, as requested
Who is our ideal candidate?

1) A gentle and understanding soul, who is able to inspire a compelling desire in learners of all ages
2) Someone who forges excellent positive relationships based on commitment, energy, trust and passion
3) A mentor who challenges (and supports) learners in their thinking - not someone who merely imparts information
4) An educator committed to marking work, going beyond what is expected, who is inspired to give constructive feedback
5) A professional who realises "the affective teacher is an effective teacher"
6) A commitment to formative assessment and the tracking of individualised learning goals to celebrate success
7) A humble person, who is creative, engaging, and people-oriented
8) Someone who strives to be organised, in planning and preparing for productive, purposeful lessons
9) A mover and a shaker - not someone tied to a desk or a computer screen during teaching times
10) A "coach" committed to presenting, praising and displaying personal best efforts
11) An instructor who guides with understanding while maintaining high standards of achievement
12) A citizen of the world committed to living a sustainable lifestyle and making a difference
13) An exceptional person with experience and/or a natural talent for teaching
14) A colleague with a high level of self-motivation and a solid follow-through with the tenacity to persevere
15) A global citizen with the appreciation for camping, living outdoors and working overseas
16) Physically fit and mentally sound
17) Oh, and a Bachelor’s or Master’s Degree in the field of Education

What are your essential attributes?

- Ability to program units of study
- Excellence in teaching practice
- Commitment to life-long learning
- Ability to connect positively with parents and students
- Empathy and kindness
- Patience
- Flexibility
- Expertise in teaching and learning
- Leadership as service
- Ability to create a compelling desire in others
- Organised
- Passionate
- Problem solver
- Reliable
- Resilient
- Resourceful
- Committed to the cause
- Respectful of all learners and cultures
- Responsible risk taker
- Team player
