greenschool
Bali, Indonesia

Journey of a Green School Parent

Found out!
A friend just told me about Green School's TED Talk.

Research
Some exciting weeks of online research and took the step to send an email inquiry.

Call
Personal call with Green School and starting to feel that this is 'do-able'!

Application
Submitted the Application and was Accepted!
The school is assisting me with our Indonesian visas now.

Pack
What to pack?! Asked the New Parent's Facebook Group and got a great recommendation for a doctor we need as well.

Arrived in Bali!
Arrived in Bali! Wow, it's hot here!

Housing
Toured short list of homes.
Many good options with strong wifi and a rice field view!

Green School
Toured school - wow, pinched myself.

Adaptation
Missing friends and needing some help with new decisions to make,
so happy to meet other new parents and long-term Green School families - getting my questions answered!

Community
I'm learning something new about myself with each new adventure.
Keeping busy with my new parent friends this week with the 'Meaningful Monday' discussion, local trail 'trash' walk on Tuesday, and the next parent field trip to a water temple Thursday.

Local Culture
I'm a little nervous about next week's language class but given it's a goal of only 300 words, it seems manageable.

Organic Food
Friday is even better here! A famous speaker at assembly, my kids already on stage ...and the Farmers Market follows!

What's Next
Can't wait to see what adventures next week holds.
Still pinching myself.